COYUCHI LOOK BOOK
SPRING 2012

The Aesthetic Ecosystem

Nature's style is effortless—its colors always harmonize, its textures always intrigue. The simplest stone or leaf is graced with subtle and sophisticated detail, perfectly in tune with its surrounding elements.

This is the inspiration for our design philosophy: the aesthetic ecosystem—the symphony of colors, textures and details that transform a house into your natural sanctuary.

Guided by the aesthetic ecosystem, we design products that complement each other, naturally, allowing you to combine colors soft and saturated, mix textures with finger-pleasing abandon and express the innate and novel beauty of your home, from room to room and season to season.

For our designer's insights into creating an aesthetic ecosystem that fits your style, visit the collection pages at coyuchi.com.

The Colors of Coyuchi

It's been said, and rightly so, that flowers never clash. Following nature's lead, we've created a palette of colors that work together effortlessly. With neutrals from white and ivory to gray and black as a foundation, we layered in our core shades — sunwashed, natural hues that are equally lovely pale or deep, textured or smooth. Then we added pops of pure, vibrant color to accent and energize the mix. How you combine them is entirely up to you.

Pure & Natural

We choose to use only organic cotton, wool and other natural fibers because we believe that home is a sanctuary, and bed is more than just a place to sleep.

Home is the backdrop for our lives. It's the safest place on earth for a child and the most comforting place on earth for a broken heart. The healthiest place when you're sick and the coziest place on a cold winter night. It's the most relaxing place on a Sunday morning and the hardest place to leave when Monday rolls around.

Home is that piece of ourselves we leave every morning and come back to every evening, that special piece of ourselves that makes us whole, rejuvenating our mind, body and spirit so that we're able to live another day more fully, more present, more as ourselves.

And just as nature transforms itself every season, we can mold and shape our homes to reflect our mood, the light or the people we share our lives with.

When your bed is layered with pure, organic and natural fibers, when the towels you wrap up in and the blanket you snuggle under are soft, beautiful and soothing, when you know that your family is surrounded by the best that nature has to offer—then your home becomes a sanctuary. And that makes the sweet moments sweeter, the memories more vivid and life just a little bit better, every day.

THE MODERN NURSERY

Who decided pale pastels and primary colors were the only choices for the nursery? We love the relaxed elegance of charcoal gray and white. Mini checks and textural Swiss dot play sweet counterpoint to smooth percale, and the neutral palette pairs nicely with a range of accent colors (yes, including those pastels and primaries).

We think the nursery should be as beautiful, soothing and natural as the rest of your home. So we've designed crib bedding that lets you mix and match to create just the look you want, while keeping your little one cozy and comfortable, night and day. For late-night feedings, tummy time and story hour, our coverlets and blankets are the perfect snugglers. And they're beautifully made, so you can hand them down, from baby to baby, and generation to generation.

Nature Comes Home

Humans need nature, not just to survive, but to thrive.

Quiet mountain vistas, as the sun dips below the horizon. The soothing babble of a creek, dancing through the forest. The cooling comfort of soft green grass on a warm summer day. We seek nature out to lift our mood, nurture our spirit and fuel our inspiration, to soothe our hearts and renew our bodies.

We strive to bring nature home with pure natural fibers, minimally processed to preserve their essential qualities. Surrounded by the essence of nature, you'll feel rejuvenated, transforming your home into a sanctuary that supports and comforts your mind, body and soul.
